

CLOSING THE LEARNING ↔ GAP

97% of educators reported learning loss due to COVID-19 when comparing their current students to those in previous years.

say students are more than three months behind socially and emotionally say students are more than three months behind academically

say the gap is wider between struggling and high-performing students

We will all have to work together to regain lost learning – that means dedication from students, parents, teachers, and administrators. It must be a united team effort.

– High school teacher, age 51, rural Ohio

Educators Know Best

Educators surveyed by Horace Mann rank what's needed to help students catch up.

Narrower focus in grade-level standards

53%

Summer school for more students

38%

More paraprofessionals

34%

Repeat grade for more students

31%

SEL support

30%

Increase curriculum next year

16%

Teachers' voices are key to chart the best path to address learning loss from COVID-19.

Read more of their insights at horacemann.com/gap

